

Selected upcoming international films
March 11 2005 - Screen International

Selected upcoming international films

Films using South Africa as a location or as a co-production partner range from apartheid-era dramas, to adaptations of Booker Prize-winning novels, through to tales of orphaned elephants

HOT STUFF

Phillip Noyce is to direct a dramatic thriller for the UK's Working Title Films. A World Apart's Shawn Slovo wrote the script; Robyn Slovo produces. Financing: Universal Studios.

LORD OF WAR

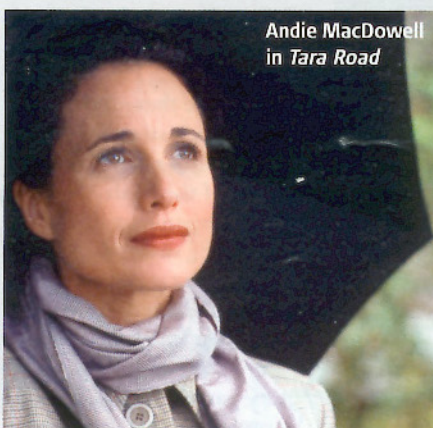

Starring Nicolas Cage and Ethan Hawke, a $50m action thriller about arms dealing. Gattaca's Andrew Niccol directed. International sales: Arclight Films.

TARA ROAD

Andie MacDowell and Olivia Williams star in a story about two women who swap houses and change each other's lives. Gillies MacKinnon directed. International sales: The Works.

DUCAIN'S BOYS

Film about the exploitative world of football agents centred on two young South Africans lured to Europe. Yasmin's Kenny Glanaan is directing.

THE NO.1 LADIES' DETECTIVE AGENCY

Anthony Minghella and Sydney Pollack's Mirage Enterprises is producing the adaptation of the best-selling series of Botswana-set novels about a lady detective.

ELEPHANT TALES

A story about two baby elephants orphaned by poachers, being written and directed by Mario Andreacchio. Shooting from end of April. International sales: Myriad Pictures.

WHERE LOVE REIGNS

Martin Scorsese is executive producing this story about the love affair between psychoanalyst Carl Jung, played by Scottish actor Douglas Henshall, and Sabina Spielrein. International sales: Becker Films International.

DISGRACE

Ralph Fiennes is to star in adaptation of J M Coetzee's Booker Prize-winning novel about an academic in Cape Town who has an affair with a student. Production company: Wild Strawberries (Australia). Steve Jacobs is due to direct.

MIRANDA JAMES BARRY

Marleen Gorris is to direct this historical drama about the first woman doctor, who is forced to masquerade as a man. Rachel Weisz will star along with Sean Bean and Sean Pertwee. Production company: Focus Films (UK).

PARTITION

Romance set against final days of the British Empire in India starring Jimi Mistry. Scheduled to start shooting in April or May on location in India, London and South Africa. International sales: Myriad Pictures.

TOUSSAINT

Biopic of Haitian revolution hero that will mark US actor Danny Glover's feature directing debut. Slated for April 2006 as the first film from Glover's own production company, Louverture Films (New York).

NO FEAR

Real-life story of corporate whistle blower Marsha Coleman-Adebayo in South Africa. The film is another

Danny Glover project, written by Joslyn Barnes. Production company: Louverture Films (New York).